Title: A Strange Day In July

Concept:

This story is about two people who came to live in the prosperous London from a different country. They shared a house with others for the first time. Based on respect for privacy and cultural differences, everyone did not ask too much about each other.

Except for the landlord, the other two tenants have never met. An unknown woman appeared in this three-story house.

My friend and I rented here shortly after came to live in London. We rented a room on the top floor. The landlord's room and kitchen were on the first floor. At that time, the two another tenants on the second floor we did not meet yet. Life in London is always busy.

A week later. That day was a Saturday. I went to the kitchen to cook and suddenly heard a female voice behind me.

"Hello, you should be the new tenant , right?"

In terms of politeness, I invited her to have something to eat with us in my room.

Few hours later. Just as I went to the kitchen to find some snacks again, the landlord came back.

"Hey, do you have a party with friend tonight?" I said.

"She is Merina who lives on the 2nd floor."
